

Member Publications

The NACBS wants to highlight the work of our members. If you have recently published a book or article, let us know! This year's annual meeting will feature recent publications by members in several ways. We hope you will participate and share your work!

Recent publications list in conference materials

Conference materials for the 2023 annual meeting will include a recent publications list of all works submitted by members through the recent publications form.

Member publications digital table

As part of our conference webpage this year, we'll feature a virtual table of member publications. This slideshow-style list will display the covers of member publications. Titles will be clickable to link to publisher or author sites. Please fill out the recent publications form to participate!

Member publications table at NACBS 2023

We want to see our members' books in the exhibit hall at our annual meeting! If your publisher isn't exhibiting this year, we will offer a cooperative book exhibit table to display member titles. Please fill out the recent publications form and bring a physical copy of your book to the conference for display!

To submit your recent publication please use this form. For the conference this year, we will consider recent publications to mean anything published in 2022/2023
